Richmond Matters

RICHMOND, Oct 14

A telegram to the Despatch says Governor Walker made an address today in the fair grounds at Danville In the political portion of his address he said he felt nothing but pity for the opposition party in the late canvass, who were led by a set of cormorants and carpet baggers, who had nothing at stake, but their own selfish interests. He rejoiced that the elections settled the fact that Virginia was hereafter to be ruled on the principles of right and justice, civil and political equality What she now needs is plenty of honest, industrious and intelligent laborers—no matter from what source they came. He appealed to the young men of Virginia not to forsake the plow and fly to the large cities of the North, where vice and demoralization awaited them

The Elections.

In Ohio and Pennsylvania the result of the elections were in such great doubt that we hardly dared to claim a victory. In Ohio, especially, the enemy were determined and active, and their forces were marshalled under the lead of one of the most popular men, personally, that the State could produce. Our own canvass was imperfect and our strength scarcely brought out. Notwithstanding these adverse circumstances the people have again prevailed and declared that Democracy, as at present taught, must have no foothold in the North. They cannot forget that its leaders were our enemies during the war, and are still zealously laboring to destroy the legitimate fruits of the great victory which was purchased at such a fearful cost of blood and treasure. Until the great questions which the rebellion forced upon us are settled, they are determined that Democracy shall gain no foot-hold in the loyal North.

The result in Iowa was never in question and little anxiety is felt for returns, but enough has been received to show the Republican majority much larger than the most sanguine anticipated.

The Republicans in these great States have fought a noble fight, and given to sham democracy a blow that it will not soon recover from.

A dispatch to the New York Tribune, under date of Oct. 12th, says that Gov. Senter's message is the ablest State paper produced in Tennessee for years. The immediate enfranchisement of rebels was earnestly recommended, and the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment was pressed by him with a skill, tact, adroitness, and force that commanded the respectful attention of even its enemies. The free school system was deservedly praised for the wonderful results gained in the two years of its existence, and its continuance and generous support warmly urged. The sale of all delinquent railroads, and the use of the proceeds in lessening the State debt, was presented as the sure and the only way out of the wretched condition of our finances. The Legislature was asked to do something effectual toward bringing in population and capital to develop the amazing resources of Tennessee proper. Notice was taken of the State's Prison and the State's charities. Gov. Senter is to-night rated much higher by all parties than ever before.

One of the chief complaints that the Democrats bring against Gen. Grant is that he is fond of a horse, and prefers a good one to an indifferent one. It is an evidence of the clearness of a man's character when his traducers hunt for such charges against him. The first President was not less distinguished for his love of that noble animal. Aaron Burr, who hated Washington, once said of him to the late Gov. Francis, "he never read a book in his life, unless it was a book on farriery." The Albany Argus charges the President with going over the country, attending horse races. Racing is not the most refined and intellectual of amusements, although many worthy men have for it a fondness which almost amounts to a passion. But the President needs no defence in this particular. The New York Commercial says that he has not witnessed a horse race since he was inaugurated.

THE NATIONAL DEBT. The Providence Journal, one of the soundest and most reliable Republican organs in the country, thinks it strange that workingmen will credit the demagogues and shallow economists who tell them that the repudiation of the debt would inure to the advantage of labor. No class of the people are more interested in the stability of government, in the maintenance of the public faith, than the laboring men. Without this, capital shuts itself up in investments that lead to no enterprises and employ no labor. A primary condition to the full and profitable employment of labor is security, and this cannot exist without good faith. One of the great advantages of a high national credit is that the debt could be funded, at a lower rate of interest, which would diminish the taxes by eighteen to twenty-five millions, and would have a salutary effect on the general rate of interest; for undoubtedly the high rate paid by the government keeps up the price of money in the operations of trade and production. Men are tempted into government securities who would otherwise invest in commercial paper. For moderate rates of interest, moderate rents and moderate prices of the necessaries of life, the first thing is to put the debt and the finances in proper condition, and the first step towards this is to place the public faith upon an unquestioned and unquestionable basis. The men who talk about repudiation, or about any of the just responsibilities of the public indebtedness, are the worst enemies of the laboring classes.

In this respect the administration stands true ground. Gen. Grant took the earliest occasion of his official term, his very inaugural speech, to declare the inviolability of the debt, as indeed it is declared in the fourteenth amendment of the constitution; and Mr. Boutwell has promptly carried into practice the policy which the President declared. Let this policy be steadily maintained, and in a few years the burden of our debt will be so much diminished that whisky and tobacco will pay the entire charge of it, and make adequate provision for its reduction and extinction.

The Democratic members of the Legislature of Washington Territory illustrated the penchant of their party for secession the other day by deserting their posts of duty, and thus leaving the body without a quorum. The object of this unseemly flight was evidently to prevent the election of certain Territorial officers by the Republican majority of the Legislature. Beaten by the people at the polls, they endeavor, by a process which has grown into a custom of late among the Democratic law-makers and breakers, to defeat the will of the people by downright and shameful refusal to perform their sworn official duties.

The total number of graves of soldiers who died in defence of the American Union now recorded in the printed forms published by the Quartermaster's Department amounts to about $193,000. There yet remain to be printed the records of about 120,000 graves, making an aggregate of 300,000, of which the names of 100,000 occupants will probably never be known.

The London Times is savage on the subject of pardoning impenitent Fenians. It thinks that if the forbearance of the Government had been invoked in a becoming tone amnesty might be a message of peace. As it is, it believes amnesty at this time would be not only unjust, but impolitic.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14. The news received since noon has not materially altered Hayes' majority. It will be about 10,000, and the Legislature will be Republican.

Political and Personal.

Advices from Iowa say that Ex-Representative James Wilson will be made Senator in place of Grimes. He has hitherto declined to be a candidate.

It is reported that the Confederate archives deposited in one of the banks of Montreal include valuable documents affecting Alabama question.

In consequence of the black-mail operations of certain specially appointed officers, Secretary Boutwell and Commissioner Delano have decided that hereafter none but regular revenue officers shall be employed to collect the income tax.

The N. Y. Herald says that President Grant was asked to purchase "editorial notices" of a favorable character in the Sun by an advance payment to Dana in the shape of the New York Collectorship. But Grant declined to be puffed at that price, and hence Dana's venom toward him.

—An Oregon Democratic paper says that no platform of principles can be Democratic that pretends horror of repudiation. It says that last year the very Conservative proposition of Mr. Pendleton to pay the debt in greenbacks was accepted under a sort of protest, but now nothing can be listened to short of entire repudiation, both of the debt and of Congress.

Jeff. Davis is said to have expressed the hope that the liberal Conservative Republicans of the South and the Democrats of the North would succeed in the fall elections. His estimate of parties is that the Northern Democrats represent what is left of the principle of self-government, or "white man's government," while the Conservative Republicans South represent all that is left of the principle in that section.

In his new lecture Senator Sumner contends that the notion of caste is repugnant, first to the idea of a republic, and second to human nature itself. He seeks to refute the arguments used in defence of this system of distinction, first to the Word of God, and secondly from the teachings of science.

A large number of the leading citizens of Philadelphia, merchants, professional men and others, have joined in a very earnest memorial to the representatives of their districts in Congress, in favor of the civil-service bill of Mr. Jenckes, or some similar measure. The arguments which they put forward are not new, but they are unanswerable. Such arguments, however, are not sufficient to bring about a measure like the reform of the civil service, which, while working great general good, will be unwelcome to individual interests, and opposed by many private prejudices. There is needed a constant and powerful pressure, to impress these arguments upon the minds of Congress, and to demonstrate that the public sentiment of the country is awake to the imperative need of action. We are glad to recognize indications of such a pressure, wholesome in character and in strong contrast to the influences sometimes brought to bear upon Congress, from the solid men of Philadelphia. The representatives whom they address need good counsel of this sort as much as any in the House; and when they are converted to the support of the reform so needed we may hope for an early response to similar appeals from other parts of the country.

COLORED SENATORS.—A writer in The Richmond Journal in sketching the prominent members of the Virginia Senate thus notices the five colored Senators:

J. W. D. BLAND.

Mr. Bland of Prince Edward, who graduated in the Convention School, is by common consent the spokesman of his brethren. He displays far more than average ability, speaks grammatically, and debates well; is never disconcerted or at a loss for a proper phrase. He is bold enough to dispute points and argue motions with the best of them. So, too, he can draw a resolution with singular perspicuity and point, and his "Mr. President" is as emphatic as any uttered on the floor. In person, Mr. Bland is comely, skin dark, but not decidedly black; face well rounded, and when he speaks he shows a fine set of teeth. He dresses well, and looks altogether like one who was inwardly content with, if not proud of, his lot. There is no use of saying on which side J. W. D. Bland votes.

J. D. LYONS.

Dr. Lyons—for he is a graduate, or, at least, a practitioner of medicine—is from York County. He is a new comer into the political field; but as he hasn't spoken on any subject yet, we have no means of judging of his oratorical powers, as compared with those of his colleague, Mr. Bland.—But of his personal appearance, we can say candidly, that he is the most elegantly gotten up of any of his brethren. His dress is faultless. In form he is an Apollo; in complexion, an olive—very bright; eyes large and lustrous; hair short, soft, and silky.—He must be very young—certainly not over 22 or 23. A Republican.

GEORGE TEAMOH,

of Norfolk County, was a member of the Convention, where he was particularly noted for his onslaughts upon the Conservative newspapers of this city, the reporters of whom used to maliciously fabricate plagues for him. Thus, not unfrequently Mr. Teamoh would rise to a "personal explanation," with the obnoxious paper in his hand, which in the end would be demolished. Mr. Teamoh is a shrewd politician, and a close but not able debater. There is nothing striking in his appearance.

JOHN ROBINSON,

of Amelia, is a bright mulatto, nearly white; face beardless, head large, dress plain. He seldom speaks, but usually conveys his sentiment through his ballot.

W. P. MOSELY,

of Goochland, is a large, benevolent looking colored man, well developed head and brow; firm, large mouth, set around with iron gray whiskers. He is well educated, but makes no display of his intelligence.

THE NATIONAL SOLDIER'S HOME.—There are three National Homes for Sick and Disabled Union Soldiers: one at Augusta, Maine, one at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and one at Dayton, Ohio. All disabled or invalid soldiers who have an honorable discharge are entitled to the privileges of these Homes. A blank application for admission will be furnished on application to any one of the following managers: Gen. Butler, president, Lowell, Mass.; Gen. Martindale, Rochester, N. Y.; Jay Cooke, Philadelphia, Pa.; L. B. Gunckel, Dayton, Ohio; Richard J. Oglesby, Springfield, Ill.; F. Smyth, Manchester, N. H.; Dr. E. B. Wolcott, Milwaukee, Wis.; Gen. J. S. Cavender, St. Louis, Mo.; H. L. Bond, Baltimore, Md.

This blank must be filled up and sworn to by the applicant, and a physician must testify in writing on oath to the disability of the applicant. A known citizen must also testify as to his identity. When the paper thus prepared is forwarded to the President at Lowell, if accepted, he sends coupon tickets for transportation, the applicant choosing the home he prefers.

If the soldier is married he can leave his pension (if he has any) to his family.—Most the inmates speak well of their treatment in these Homes.

The fund for the support of these institutions, accumulated during and since the war, from unclaimed soldiers' pay, military fines, &c., now amounts to about ten millions of dollars.

Besides affording comfortable homes for disabled veterans, these institutions extend outdoor relief to numbers of those disabled soldiers who are not likely to live long, and who wish to remain with their families.

Such persons have to furnish a physician's certificate every month, showing their continued disability. It would seem to be desirable to extend this feature of the benevolent work of the Homes.

CO-OPERATIVE LABOR. The New York papers mention a proposition made by a large manufacturing firm in that city to allow their workingmen to share in a degree the profits of the concern, which it is estimated will amount to at least $8000 per annum. Persons who voluntarily leave the employ of the firm forfeit their portion of the profits, and the amount thus derived goes to form a fund for sick and disabled workmen, to which the firm will contribute $1000 this year. The firm pledges itself at the same time to pay the highest wages that any other in the trade would pay. This is not a new thing. About four years ago several of the coal owners in the northerly part of England, whose interest and property had theretofore been constantly depreciated by strikes, offered a similar scheme to the acceptance of steady working men. After two years of a fair trial it was found to work admirably, both parties to the agreement profiting in equal degree. And the pecuniary consequences were not the least important feature of the arrangement, for it brought together in co-operative union only the steadiest and best workmen, and the moral condition of the localities in which the scheme was in operation was reported greatly improved.

In the United States Circuit Court at Baltimore yesterday, Judge Giles delivered an opinion holding that the violation of the twenty-ninth section of the National Banking act, prohibiting national banks from loaning to any one individual more than one-tenth of the amount of the capital stock of the bank, did not invalidate such contract, but subjects banks to the forfeiture of their franchise.

Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attentions.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been proved by the thousands of cures it has made through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of this medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physician, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also, in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone to the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general the most highly nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. The requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, bilious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgment of physicians, indicated speedy death. The lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment, and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggists and dealers. jan'27 enly

Rouse the System.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow beings.

In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body when the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than ever, (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcholic stimulant were resorted to, but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve, and brain, flows through the channels of circulation instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

The Cuba Case.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 15th.

The case of the sloop of war Cuba comes up before the U. S. Commissioner to-morrow. It continues to excite great interest. A marine who had deserted from the Cuba and went to New York has been brought here as a witness for the Gov't.

An attempt was made by the officers of the Cuba to arrest him to-day, but the officers of the U. S. gunboat Frolic claimed that he was under the protection of the U. S. Flag and the movement was abandoned.

The impression is general that the case will be again continued by the Gov't.

MODEL PROPRIETORS. We learn from the Patten Voice that the proprietors of Dyer Brook Plantation, T. W. Baldwin and Arad Thompson, of this city, have nearly completed an excellent road throughout the entire length of their township. The settlers are required to make the road across their own lots while the proprietors promptly make it across the unsettled lands. They volunteer to pay the school teachers their wages if the inhabitants will board them. They have gone to a large part of the expense of building a good school house in one part of the town. All this they do without being driven to it by taxation. They are model proprietors, and they are loved and respected by the inhabitants of the plantation. It would be a mean man that would steal from such proprietors. Let others do likewise; they will find that it pays.

Editor Whig & Courier—

In your issue of this date I notice a "circular" from Post No. 12, G. A. R., in reference to "a certain Claim Agent doing business in this city."

I do not know to whom it refers or what may be the merits of that case, but I do know that in one instance action has been taken by the Post prejudicial to a certain Claim Agent upon false representations maliciously made by a certain member of that order to gratify a personal spite; and that the action of the Post was taken without giving to the party accused any opportunity for explanation or defence. In justice to the Order I will say however that I believe but very few of the members participated in the action referred to or approve it.

J. H. PERKINS.

—A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal has been indulging in an up-river trip and returns in ecstacies. Hear him;

We have just returned from a day's ride, 70 miles from Bangor, to Springfield, and instead of going away from civilation we seemed to go more and more into it. Forty miles of our journey was over the E. & N. A. R. R. which is one of the smoothest, easiest riding, best fitted up roads in New England. It runs four trains per day as far as Oldtown, and two as far as Lincoln. Conductor Osburn of the mail train, is so completely a gentleman, faithful to his duty, with a pleasant way of doing even a disagreeable thing, that the traveling public are always glad to see him.

Lincoln is waking up and presents the appearance of a live village, determined to keep up with the times in its stores, shops, dwelling houses and hotels (by the way if any one wishes a first rate stopping place let him try the Mansion House and he will find good beds, good tables and pleasant faces.

The County Fair and Cattle Show was held here the 6th and without going into particulars we will say, if any one doubts the ability of this part of the State, to raise good corn and potatoes, pumpkins and apples, colts and calves, as well as boys and girls, let them see what we saw, and they will be convinced.

The ride from Lincoln to Springfield was most delightful—good horses, good road and good company, with nature in her most brilliant dress; the autumn trees were never more beautiful. We saw no marks of the heavy wind in the shape of upturned trees or unroofed barns. The orchards looked better and had much more fruit than is reported in the western counties. Many trees we saw were full. Another thing we noticed, the meeting houses were better looking and in advance of those of the same size in other parts of the State. [illegible] are fully up with the times.

If [illegible] all of [illegible] of Kennebec let them come down here and learn better.

—The Lewiston Journal says Typhoid fever is rather on the decrease in that vicinity. The cases do not run very hard and there have been few deaths from this source. Those that have occurred have been among children, a strange development of the disease.

—At the Contoocook Valley Fair, Joseph B Walker, the orator of the day, stated that hundreds of farms in New Hampshire had been abandoned and given up to the pasturage and to the growth of wood and timber. In a single section of the town of Warner, where formerly forty yoke of oxen were kept, and from which twenty families went on Sunday to church, only three yoke of oxen can now be found with five houses and twelve old cellars. In the town in which he resided one school district had dwindled down to two families; and a similar state of things could be found all over the State.

VACCINATION. A remarkable contribution to the controversy now in progress as to the merits of vaccination is furnished by an official body in Ireland. The Poor-law Commissioners there have, it seems, informed the Belfast Board of Guardians that small-pox has altogether ceased in the sister county. This result the commissioners attribute to the careful carrying out of the Compulsory Vaccination act enforced in Ireland since 1863. The figures given are very striking. Before that year the deaths from small-pox averaged one thousand annually; in 1864 the number was reduced to 854; in 1865, it was 347; in 1866, 187; in 1867, 20; and in 1878 only 19 deaths occurred. In the first quarter of 1869 there were three deaths; in the second quarter there were none. These statements are so far most satisfactory.

The failure of the British Commercial Life Insurance Company, was announced in the New York Supreme Court Monday, and Francis M. Bixby was appointed receiver. This company was a branch of the British European Insurance Company, and besides life insurance issued fidelity guarantee policies to government employees. The company is now bankrupt. The outstanding liabilities amount to nine million pounds sterling. In addition to contracts for payment of annuities, amounting to over sixteen thousand pounds per annum. The assets of the company amount to half a million pounds. The prospects of a satisfactory liquidation are regarded as discouraging. They have sent an agent to this country to endeavor to obtain from the State Treasurer a certain amount of money deposited by the British Commercial Insurance Company, as security, as required by law, and the matter has been referred to the courts. The funds in the hands of the Treasurer amount to more than $260,000, which is sufficient to cover all American policies.

THE contest between Johnson and Etheridge, of Tennessee, for the United States Senatorship, is said to be both interesting and exciting. Both of the candidates are electioneering at a lively rate. The ex-Alderman occupies the bridal chamber of the principal hotel in Nashville, and has flooded both houses of the Legislature with his principal messages and vetoes.

The Nashville Press and Times of the 6th instant thus refers to Mr. Johnson:

Mr. Johnson is at the Maxwell House, working more earnestly for the Senatorship than he worked thirty years ago for a seat in the Legislature. Years have not palled, nor honors sated his appetite for office. It grows with growing age like the miser's lust for gold. The declarations made by him so often on the stump, that he desired no more office, were only rhetorical flourishes and figures of speech, to be read backward, and he now button-holes, argues, promises, and entreats, with as much zeal as ever a youthful aspirant did, on the threshold of official honor.

Every day or two the telegraph announces what the horse "Dexter" has done. The last is that he "trotted half a mile in one minute and four seconds Saturday afternoon." This may be so, but if Dexter is doing such wonderful feats we fail to understand why he should not be permitted to show in public for the benefit of charitable objects. Dexter is a good advertisement but they are over-doing him. Lady Thorne stands ready to meet him for money or charity and unless Dexter responds we must consider the Lady the fastest horse, and do not care to hear what Dexter has accomplished in private. A man can trot his horse in two minutes in the stable.

—Port. Argus.

A severe rebuke of intemperance is administered by Bishop Bayley, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, New Jersey. Addressing his clergy, the Bishop says: "I am compelled to call your attention in a particular manner to the dreadful sin of drunkenness. This horrible vice, so destructive alike to body and soul, is, as we all know, making the most fearful ravages among our people. It may be said to be the chief cause of the sins they commit, and of all the social evils and discomforts under which they labor. I am determined to make use of the most severe measures against all who are addicted to this scandalous and destructive vice; and if they continue in the practice of it, they must do it as outcasts from the Catholic Church, who have no right to the name of Catholic while they live, nor Christian burial when they die."

The Halifax (Nova Scotia) Recorder is evidently in a fighting mood. Hear it;

We will shortly be set free, and we will then be at liberty to take any direction we choose. There is one thing quite certain, and that is that as soon as the Dominion, as it is called, is set at liberty, and the red coats and kilts are withdrawn from this province, the people of Nova Scotia will take the liberty of walking out of the Confederation, or the infant independence of British America will be baptized with blood.

—The total revenue of the English Government for the year ending Oct. 1, was £73,262,667 against £70,307,563 the previous year.

VALUABLE

AND MILL PROPERTY

FOR SALE.

THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of all his interest in Timber Lands and mills, will sell on favorable terms the following:

One-Half Township No. 5, Range 4, Oxford County.

The whole township contains twenty-six thousand (26,000) acres; is heavily timbered with spruce, estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within near and easy hauling distance of the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, or Parmachena Lake, which is embraced within its limits.

Also 16,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron Oxford Co., well covered with large Spruce timber. Swift river and its branches run through these lands and empty into the Androscoggin below Rumford Falls.

Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.,

two miles above the Alpine House, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on these lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is steadily increasing in value.

Also 2500 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham, near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling Pine timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Saccarappa, or by hauling four to five miles they can be put into the Saco. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract; distance to the canal at Harrison ten miles; to the railroad at South Paris twelve miles. The land is valuable for settling purposes after being cleared of timber.

Also 485 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 827 shares. The property of the company consists of a Steam Saw Mill, capable of manufacturing five million feet of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and laths. About fifteen acres land in the city of Lewiston, well located for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of timber land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of the timber has been cut.

Miscellany.

CRANBERRY BOGS.

The Massachusetts Ploughman has an instructive article under the above caption in which we are told that a large proportion of the lands of the Old Bay State according to the industrial statistics, are improved. It is found that of 3,767,895 acres which constitute the area of the State, there are actually 1,030,925 acres, or nearly one third unimproved, and 282,439 acres unimprovable. The Ploughman believes that a large proportion of the unimproved lands consists of swamp land, and we presume that statement is quite true.

We have not now at hand the statistics to show how much unimproved lands there are in Maine; but we have no doubt a very large proportion is swamp land, some of which only serves to hold the other together, and cannot be made productive without an enormous outlay to which our people are not willing to subject themselves in the present condition of things. But we are of opinion that many of these swamps might be made into cranberry beds which would yield a large margin of profit to the owners and cultivators.

In Massachusetts there are only 3,883 acres of cranberry bogs. In Maine we believe we might have a much larger average than that. There are now hundreds of acres covered with cranberries in a wild state, and in the vicinity of some of our large lakes there are many cranberry beds which yield very profitable crops without any cultivation except that which nature gives.

The demand for cranberries has very much increased within a few years, and to such an extent that many of our farmers would find it profitable to cultivate them. We very well know that there are thousands of bogs in Maine which might be profitably put into cranberry beds. These beds with proper attention and cultivation would yield a greater profit per acre than almost any other crop. The capitalists of New York and New Jersey are investing largely in cranberry swamps, and the profit is very large, even enormous, as compared with the other crops. A demand for this valuable berry has sprung up in Europe and the supply is far below the demand.

In such a condition of affairs our readers will perceive there is not much danger of glutting the market for a long time. The Ploughman thinks that it would be impossible to grow crops that would be unsalable at remunerative prices, even if all the swamp lands of Massachusetts were converted into cranberry beds, and he might have added, the swamp lands in Maine also. It is known that apples in New England have been somewhat scarce for several years, and this scarcity brings cranberries more into demand. There is no fruit that so well supplies the want of apples as cranberries. Our old orchards have decayed and many of them past recovery, and our young orchards don't receive that attention which a wise culture requires. Our lands have grown old and lost in some good degree, that power so essential to the vigorous growth of apple trees.

If our farmers still insist on neglecting their apple orchards as they have for a few years past, we advise them to go into the cranberry culture, and not let another season pass without doing something in this direction, especially those who have suitable bogs on the farms for cranberry beds. Let it be borne in mind that a meadow should have a brook running through it in order to make a good spot for growing cranberries. At certain seasons of the year the vines do much better by being covered with water. The overflowing water protects them against worms and frost and at the same time fertilizes the land.

If a farmer has a meadow which can be easily plowed at any time, we can tell him that this meadow is the most valuable portion of his farm. Properly prepared and set out with cranberry plants it will produce more profit than any crop he can raise.—True, it costs something to put such meadows into proper shape for cranberries but after it is done and properly cared for, it will pay back all the expense with a good margin for profits. But many farmers may not know how to put such meadows into cranberries. This way is easy enough and work by no means difficult.

The bog must be properly prepared to raise the plants. It should be ditched with mains and branches so that no standing water should be allowed to remain upon it. A dam should be made with proper sluice ways so that the meadow can be overflowed at any time when needed. All trees should be removed roots and all, and the peat or muck removed to the depth of several inches so that the whole surface should be a perfect level. On the surface thus prepared sand should be spread some four inches deep.—This sand is doubly useful, for it prevents a too vigorous growth of the vine and kills out wild grasses and weeds. Cranberries can no more grow among thick and choking weeds than wheat or corn.

When the ground is properly prepared, the plants may be set either in the spring or fall. The vines selected for planting should not be of too rank a growth. A sod bearing the bushes should be carefully replanted, leaving some two or three runners to each root.—Plant them about eighteen inches apart, placing the roots in the sand to the depth of three inches, and cover each runner to its top. After this work is all done well done, all that is necessary for subsequent culture is to keep down the weeds until the cranberry plants have become masters of the situation and then the weeds will no longer afford trouble to the cultivator. The meadow should be plowed through the winter and spring into May when the vines are generally out of danger.

We have said that a meadow with a brook running through it, is the best spot for growing cranberries. And so it is. But cranberries can be raised on other lands and even in our gardens, but not so profitably as on meadow lands with a brook meandering through them. Millions of bushels of this valuable berry might be raised in Maine, if proper attention were paid to its culture.—We have suitable land in abundance in our State for growing cranberries which are now entirely useless. Let our farmers ponder these things well. There is great profit in growing cranberries. A word to the wise ought to be sufficient.

AGRICOLA.

GREASING WAGONS. Few people fully appreciate the importance of thoroughly lubricating the axles, &c., of wagons and carriages, and still fewer know what are the best materials and the best methods of applying them. A well made wheel will endure common wear from ten to twenty-five years, if care is taken to use the right kind and proper amount of grease; but if this matter is not attended to, they will be used up in five or six years. Lard should never be used on a wagon, for it will penetrate the hub, and work itself out around the tenons of the spokes, and spoil the wheel. Tallow is the best lubricator for wooden axletrees and castor oil for iron. Just grease enough should be applied to the spindle of a wagon to give it a light coating; this is better than more, for the surplus put on will work out at the ends, and be forced by the shoulder bands and nut washers into the hub around the outside of the boxes. To oil an axletree, first wipe the spindle clean with a cloth wet with spirits of turpentine, and then apply a few drops of castor oil near the shoulders and end. One teaspoonful is sufficient for the whole.—[Exchange.]

HOW TO MAKE PAPER TRANSPARENT. Artists, architects, land-surveyors, and all who have occasion to make use of tracing-paper in their professional duties, will be glad to know that any paper capable of the transfer of a drawing in ordinary ink, pencil, or water-colors, and even a stout drawing-paper, can be made as transparent as the thin yellowish paper at present used for tracing purposes. The liquid used is benzine. If the paper is damped with pure and fresh distilled benzine, it at once assumes a transparency, and permits of the tracing being made, and of ink or water colors being used on its surface without any "running." The paper resumes its opacity as the benzine evaporates, and if the drawing is not then completed, the requisite portion of the paper must be again damped with the benzine. The transparent calico on which indestructible tracings can be made, was a valuable invention, but this new discovery of the properties of benzine will prove of further service to many branches of the art profession, in allowing the use of stiff paper where formerly only a slight tissue could be used.—[Exchange.
